HEADLESS BODY MYSTERY.

Remains Found in the Susquehanne River Still Unidentified.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 6.-The coroper's jury investigating the death of the beadless man who was found in a bag in the Susquehanna River on Tuesday met in Source Coslett's office, at Edwardsville, yesterday afternoon and held an inquest. An enormous crowd of people thronged the office, and hundreds were unable to get in-

James Murphy and Thomas Hopkins testified to the finding of the headless trunk, while Dr. Louis Edwards testified as to the post-mortem he held, and described the mutilations on the body. The jury ren-dered a verdict that the deceased came to his death from causes unknown, and that the body had been placed in the river by some persons unknown to the jury, where Investigation shows that the body is that of a young man about twenty-five years of age, nearly six feet tall and weighing about 170 pounds. The man had evident-ly been employed at hard labor, from the ay been employed at hard labor, from the appearance of his hands. The body was hadly decomposed and had been in the water four or five days. There were incisions on the back and front of the body, exposing the internal organs, as well as cuts in arms and legs, showing the muscles and arteries, as if a surgeon or medical surdent had ben dissecting.

It is impossible to identify the remains, as there is nothing at all about them by which this can be done. The head has not been found, although the river bottom eer the sack was discovered has been urched very closely. Wherever the body s mulliated the person was known, as head was evidently taken off to rewe all efforts at identification. The ody might have come from some large hospital, but there is none in this section where it could have been used. The sack was probably dumped into the river not far from where it was found.

far from where it was found.

Both thigh bones were sawed through,
so that the legs could be doubled over the body. The headless remains were interred in Porty Fort Cemetery this morning. County Detective Johnson is at work on the case, but it is doubtful if he will ac-

Train Parted Where They Sat. Brunswick, N. J., July 6.-Two en boarded a freight train at Monmouth the bumper of one car, with their feet exthe bumper of one car, with their feet extended to the bumper of the next car. The train parted between these cars and the men fell on the rails and were in tantly killed. One of the men was a negro. Their clothing was examined, and notes and photographs on the white man indicated that he was Albert Hicks. The identity of the negro has not been established.
